Waldo McMillan brings exceptional political and public policy experience to the firm. He is a frequent speaker on the topics of technology, public policy and religion.

Mr. McMillan joined the firm after having held high level positions on both Capitol Hill and the nonprofit sector. From 2004-2007, Mr. McMillan served as Counsel for Business Affairs and Strategic Outreach to Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid. Immediately prior to joining the firm, McMillan served as the first ever Vice-President and General Counsel of One Economy Corporation.

During his tenure with Senator Reid, Mr. McMillan was responsible for developing and implementing a comprehensive outreach strategy to the business community on behalf of the Leader and the entire Democratic Caucus. In this role, he managed and organized policy working groups on legislative issues pending in the Senate, including terrorism risk insurance, health IT, transportation and bankruptcy reform. In addition to his outreach duties, Mr. McMillan also served as a principal floor aide to the Leader, where he monitored the daily proceedings and legislative activities on the Senate floor.

At One Economy, Mr. McMillan oversaw the legal and operational functions of the global technology organization with offices and programs in 42 states, South Africa, Jordan, Canada, and Turkey. He also advocated the company's public policy agenda at the federal, state and local governmental levels, and authored One Economy's widely acclaimed policy blueprint entitled, "A National Blueprint for Technology and the Public Good."
